Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

It is quite apparent that only political considerations prevents the administration in Washington from conscripting and rationing manpower to the armed services and war. The manpower shortage is rapidly approaching a crisis. Agriculture, shipyards, railroads, and the merchant marine are desperately short of workers. Aside from "directives" to Selective Service boards which do not alter by one iota the Selective Service act, nothing is being done at the national capitol to mitigate the shortage of labor in any of these critical industries. A "directive" is a suggestion rather than an order. Selective Service boards receive hundreds of these but usually must fall back on the act itself for their authority. The act does not defer any special classification but leaves it up to the discretion of the boards to defer men in critical vocations. Discretion varies widely. In Texas for instance farm labor receives far more deferments than California, if newspaper reports accurately reflect conditions.

What is needed now is an overall act to make Selective Service, or something akin to it, an agency for alloting the manpower of the country both to the armed serveces and to the war industries, according to age, talents, skills and educational qualifications. An act of this kind is needed now. For what avails to it, to build up an army of seven and a half million men, if war factories are robbed to such an extent that these men cannot be properly armed? What avails to send millions of farm workers into the army if by so doing crops to feed them cannot be planted and harvested? Paul McNutt head of the manpower job has done a lot of talking but to all practical purposes has failed to act.

Only last week was the first move toward drafting labor indicated. Gold miners are being "drafted" to work in lead, copper, or other mines producing metals of which there is a critical shortage. And this, apparently by indirection. That is to say, by imposing penalties to force the miner out of any eployment unless he accepts the jobs offered by the United States Employment Service in strategic metal mines.

Sometime since Congressman Harry Englebright said brightly over telegraph wires that the fiat closing gold mines would be reconsidered. Whether it was or not we have not heard. And were it to be reconsidered the damage so far as the gold mining industry is concerned is already done. The mines are closed. The mules have been brought to the surface from a mile underground, and the miners all save those needed for maintenance purposes are gone to other jobs, dispersed to the four winds.

The trouble with our congressmen is they are out of touch with the temper of the people. This district, center of California's gold mining industry, which normally produces a quarter of California's $40,000,000 gold output, would have been glad if the gold mines could have been continued. We are not at all certain that the war effort gained anything by discharging 300 or 400 miners who possibly were qualified to work in copper mines. But on the chance that Washington is right, and that these men can be directed into copper mining, for instance, this district is willing to take it on the chin and carry on in the interest of national unity and all-out war effort. If closing the gold mines will help win the war, Nevada County is for it. The county now has approximately 750 men in the armed services, and cost what it may, these old 100 per cent American communities are going to back them up.

One thing that does strike us as horribly silly. Why are the silver mines not closed? Who are the sturdy rogues in congress that keep them open? If gold is useless in the war effort, silver is nothing but a damned millstone around the national neck.

Except For Maintenance Gold Mines Of County Virtually At A Standstill

Except for necessary dewatering and maintenance operations, the gold mining industry of Nevada County, doomed to idleness for the duration of the war by government edict, is virtually at a standstill.

The mines, except for the Lava Cap, where operations will continue by virtue of its production of a necessary flux in the smelting of lead, were given 60 days to clean up following the closing order, effective October 15th.

But ore cleanup operations did not take long. Almost all the underground men, miners and muckers and timbermen, have been laid off. At the Empire-Star Mines properties the workers were advised they could have employment at the Newmont's copper mine at Happy Camp or lead mine at Leadville, Colo.

All men displaced in the closing of the mines were required to report to the federal employment office in Grass Valley for assignment to essential war mineral mines.

The Lava Cap, the only mine in Nevada County which can continue to operate under the government's closing order, is attempting to absorb as many Nevada City-Grass Valley men as possible. Men with families and home ties are given preference at the Lava Cap. Hiring for the Lava Cap is done at the federal employment office by Charles Gibson.

Meanwhile, Congressman Harry L. Englebright stated in Washington that representatives from western states "will fight to a showdown" the WPB order closing the gold mines.

Englebright said the order did not help the war effort and that he and other congressmen had made repeated requests to WPB officials to rescind the order but without success.

It is the contention of Englebright the order has not yielded men for copper mines and he stated he has seen a petition by 150 miners of Grass Valley and Nevada City, all over 50 years of age, who said they will not move to new localities to engage in copper mining. This petition asks further investigation by the government of the entire gold mining question.

"It was not fair," Englebright stated, "to draft men and then prevent members of their families beyond draft age from earning a livelihood simply because some labor theorists thought the order would release a large number of men for strategic metals mining."

Simultaneously, Congressman Chenoweth of Colorado announced in Washington that a WPB apeal board will hear a protest against the gold mining closing order.

"Ordinarily," Chenoweth explained, "a case of this nature would be decided by Dr. Wilbur A. Nelson, chief of the mining branch, but we were told today that this was so important we would be permitted to present it orally to the appeals board."

CHRISTMAS T. B. SEALS ON SALE, NUGGET OFFICE

That the Christmas packages and letters going over-seas to our soldiers sailors and flyers may bear the seasonal tuberculosis seals, an advance sale of these has been started, by Mrs. Dick Goyne, this year in charge of Christmas seal sales in Nevada City. Several hundred have been placed on sale in the Nugget office. All those now mailing Christmas letters and gifts to members of the armed forces abroad are invited to purchase them at 305 Broad Street.

When a soldier in Uncle Sam's far-flung battle line receives a package bearing the Christmas seals, he is assured that the folks back home are carrying on while he carries on at the front. Only this week remains in which to mail Christmas packages to the armed forces.

WHITE SLIPS ARE NEEDED FOR GAS RATION BOOKS

Motor vehicle owners of Nevada County who have lost or misplaced their registration cards (white slip) should apply at once to the nearest office of the Department of Motor Vehicles for a duplicate. Presentation of the registration card will be required by the federal rationing authorities when applications are filed for gasoline rationing coupon books.

This information was received today by The Nugget from the office of James M. Carter, Director of Motor Vehicles, at Sacramento.

Applications for duplicate registration cards may be obtained from any branch office of the Department, the California Highway Patrol, or by writing to the main office at Sacramento. The fee established by the Vehicle Code for duplicates is 50 cents.

If the duplicate does not arrive on time or if the registration card is being held in Sacramento pending a transfer of ownership, registration of non resident car, or for any other reason, gasoline coupon books may be obtained by signing an affidavit form, prepared by the rationing authorities stating the registration card is in the hands of the department or giving some other valid excuse why it cannot be immediately produced.

CHARGE KENNY SPONSOR OF RED WEEKLY, DENIEED

CHARGE ?qj4 cmfwyp cmfy wp

A second, but weaker, denial by Robert Kenny that he sponsored a Communist newspaper fund raising campaign, today brought from Wallace L. Ware, candidate or Attorney General on the Warren-Houser-Ware ticket the statement: "The People's World still lists Kenny as heading its list of sponsors."

Faced with exhibition of a copy of the People's World, Communist daily newspaper, of November 28, 1938, listing Kenny as a sponsor of that newspaper's $60,000 fund raising campaign, Kenny denied point blank he had served as a sponror, Ware said.

"His second denial, printed in the Los Angeles newspapes on October 22, 1942, states he denies he was a 'principal" sponsor, Ware said. "That is political sophistry of the worst sort, and a weak equivocation that will not fool the people. I can understand his hedging, because there are plenty of copies of the People's World of November 28, 1938, carrying the Kenny story, which the people can see."

In the sub-head of the story, Ware said, the People's World states: the wording is, "Southern Notables Sponsor World Drive—Judge Kenny heads list—" The third paragraph of the story, printed on Page 1, starts, "Heading the list of sponsors is Judge Robert W. Kenny—", Ware said.

"Attorney General is the highest law enforcement office in California" Ware said. "How can the people of California have anw confidence that Kenny, as attorney general, would enforce the law against the Communists when his public record shows constant friendship and support of Harry Bridges, William Schneiderman, the Communist Party, Secretary and others who have been seeking and now seek, to destroy the American way of life foh which our boys are fighting and dying?"

Trip Into Mountains Is Enjoyed

By EDNA MARTINE

On Friday a 150 mile drive northerly through the Tahoe National forest proved a revelation in what has been accomplished by G. E. Mitchell, engineer in charge of the roads division of the local national forest. He is thoroughly alive to the value of this little known area that is a paradise for nature lovers, campers and sportsmen. As the public becomes aware of this beautiful scenic wonderland it should prove a most popular playground close at hand. This national forest contains many little lakes stocked with trout and roads or trails lead to each one. Engineer Mitchell has taken more interest in the road development that any one in the local division so far.

This road was found to be in such fine condition it would put to shame many county roads over the state that are accessable for work the year around.

The party left Nevada City at ten o'clock and drove through Bear Valley leaving the pavement at the foot of the grade to enter the Bowman lake road. Brilliant autumn leaves brightened beautiful vistas of pine covered rugged mountains and glades.

Neat camp grounds were found at Fuller and Bowman lakes. The big dam at Bowman loomed up between huge mountains of rock. A neat caretakers home is nearby with well kept yard. Several miles farther on a crew of men were engaged in realigning about three miles of road in Jackson Meadows. A camp and station is maintained at Pass Creek where the road contacts the famed emigrant Henness Pass highway. In a clear stream at the rear of the station trout swim about lazily.

Returning via Henness Pass seemed as if a magic spell had been cast over the party. Tre romance and tragedie of pioneers rushing from the east to the gold fields and land of milk and honey farther on, seemed to unfold as if pages were being turned in a book. At many places the old trail could be traced at the side of the road or the car traveled over portions of the old road. The emigrants traveled up and down the tops of ridges. Scars on trees at the roadside were scratched as the wagons were laboriously drawn up or roughlocked down the often steep narrow mountain trails by horses or oxen weary from months of travel.

Another neat camp ground was found near Milton bridge. This bridge spans a gorge of great scenic beauty. In the crystal clear water below were seen eight large trout swimming along over gravel beds. A camp ground was noted at Milton dam under golden leaved quaking aspen.

Several markers along the route gave names of long gone pioneer hotels used by the emigrants and later freighters carrying supplies from Marysville to Reno and other nearby cities. Sleighville House, well kept and occupied is the only one remaining.

The road lies seven miles north of Alleghany and at this 7000 foot elevation English mountain looms up. Many lakes are to be found on this mountain and sheep and cattle range to its topmost peaks throughout the summer. It was also observed that the party had crossed the headwaters of the south, middle and north Yuba river. Again brilliant flashes of pink and red dogwood or lemon and golden aspen leaves marked water courses in the rough terrain as the car glided up and down the well kept road. A feeling of reverence was felt as the group passed the marker where Verne Gleason froze to death in a blizzard while assisting a partner to mend broken telephone lines several years ago. Farther on a camp ground bears his name.

On a divide the Sierra Buttes were majestic in the autumn atmosphere.

PUBLIC, 85 TO 90 PERCENT OBSERVES DRIVING SPEED

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Reports indicate that approximately 85 to 90 per cent of the cars traveling on state highways are complying with the 35 mile per hour limit, Jas. M. Carter, director of Motor Vehicles, said today.

"California motorists are demonstrating their patriotism by observing the 35 mile per hour speed limit fixed by the national administration," said Carter.

"California highway patrolmen will not conduct themselves as members of the Gestapo, will exercise the courtesy which they have in the past and will use only legal methods against those individuals exceeding the limit."

The relatively few motorists exceeding the limit are traveling at high rates of speed, said Carter.

From records forwarded to Sacramento during the first week of the new speed limit, approximately 20 individuals who had been cited as exceeding 35 miles per hour were immediately referred to the Division of Drivers' Licenses for a check up on their previous records.

In almost every instance, said Carter, the offender was found to have a bad driving record and an accumulation of citations for similar violations.

Voters Here Prepared To Cast Ballots

One week from tomorrow, Nevada City voters will go to the polls to register their choice for county and state offices which must be filled and also cast a Yes or No vote on various amendments on the ballot.

The polls will be open from 6 a. m. until 7 p. m. Those who are registered in Nevada County and plan to be away from home on election day are urged to cast their vote by absentee method now.

But two county offices are to be decided at the November 3rd general election. They are sheriff and assessor. Incumbent Carl Tobiassen is opposed by Richard Hoskins for the sheriff position and Phil Scadden and Eben Smart are the assessor candidates. All other county offices were filled at the August primary election.

More than 10,000 are eligible to cast votes in Nevada County. Many of that number are living elsewhere and County Clerk R. N. McCormack is besieged with requests for absentee ballots.

As far as Nevada City voters are concerned, the governorship race is leading in interest with the county sheriff and assessor contests close behind. Nevada City as well as Nevada County voters gave Earl Warren a large majority in the August Primary and indications point to an even larger vote for Governor Olson's opponent in next week's election.

RED CROSS TO MEET WEDNESDAY

A meeting of the Red Cross will be held in the Chamber of Commerce room at the City Hall Wednesday at 8 o'clock.

The meeting was called by President H. E. Kjorlie. Officers and members are urged to attend to consider important business. All paid up members are eligible to attend the meeting.

BETTY PRESLEY LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON FOR RED CROSS TRAINING

Miss Betty Presley, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Presley and the late Gus Presley, is enroute to Washington, D. C., where she will start training under the Red Cross for military welfare work.

Miss Presley was formerly employed in welfare work by the State of California.

Caught in the Riffles

Lava Cap miners noted with interest that copper, lead and zinc miners were given a $1.00 per day increase in wages. Inasmuch as the Lava Cap is also engaged in war production, employees of the local mine are wondering if the $1 increase is also forthcoming at the Lava Cap.

Nevada City and Grass Valley may soon discover more soldiers will come to these communities for pleasure than originally anticipated. A couple of soldiers here from Camp Beale said the men in uniform are disgusted with Marysville. Tavern owners boost prices in their wares as soon as the soldiers hit town. These same soldiers had a kick against Grass Valley, too. The word spread around Camp Beale there was to be a free dance for the soldiers at Grass Valley. When they arrived at the dance hall they found they had to fork over six bits to get in.

Undersheriff William D. Woods, perusing the books in the sheriff's office, discovered that since Sheriff Tobiassen took office in 1935, a total of 1836 prisoners have been booked at the county jail.

And the surprising thing about those figures is that the total is 300 more than were booked in the period from 1913 to 1935, 22 years.

During the eight years of Sheriff Tobiassen's reign 200 prisoners were booked at the Truckee jail, where Tobiassen has Tom Dolley stationed as deputy sheriff.

Probably the most remarkable feature is that the more than 2,000 prisoners handled by the Nevada County sheriff's office in the past eight years none have made good an escape. One prisoner did get away from a guard at the county hospital but was captured later.

A blood splattered car, which crashed into a pine tree on the Colfax Highway, had Nevada County authorities and the California Highway Patrol puzzled Saturday night but the mystery was cleared today.

Jack Boatman reported to the highway patrol he was the driver of the car and it was his blood which caused so much excitement. Boatman said he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car and his machine went off the highway and crashed into the tree. Boatman requested a passing motorist, who stopped to give aid, take him to the Boatman home, nearby.

In the meanwhile the accident was reported to the authorities and the Hooper-Weaver ambulance had been called to the scene. Finding nothing but the wrecked car and the blood naturally created a mystery and considerable conjecture, especially after a thorough search of the vicinity produced no dead or injured body.

The California Highway Patrol reports Nevada County motorists ARE NOT observing the 35 mile speed limit. Army physicians wanted to put Ray Wilde, Jr., in limited service because of his leg, on which Wilde recently had an operation to correct a football injury, but Ray said "nothing doing." Ray prefers actual fighting against the enemy instead of remaining at home to guard bridges, railroads or similar duty.

CLYDE DORSEY IS DECEASED

The body of Clyde J. Dorsey, a member of the United States Armed Forces who either enlisted or was inducted from Nevada County, arrived in Grass Valley last night, where funeral rites will be conducted under the direction of the Holmes Funeral Home.

The cause of Dorsey's death was not immediately available.

The funeral rites for Dorsey are to be under the auspices of the Hague?Thomas-Hegarty Post of the American Legion.

OLSON FAILED IN HIS FIRST DUTY

THE STOCKTON RECORD

Political campaigns have something akin to a book. Full appreciation comes only through understanding the factors which lead up to the climax.

Thee are many reasons why California's gubernatorial campaign has reached its present pitch. In the Record's opinion, however, there is one reason which has contributed more to fixing voter opinion than any other. That reason is best expressed in the simple statement: Governor Olson has refused to work WITH the California legislature—even to the point of refusing to permit the legislators to meet during the greatest emergency in state and national history.

Governor Olson's attitude toward the men and women California voters elect to represent them in Sacramento has become a basic consideration in the election campaign. It runs deeper than personal feelings. It is bigger than any single controversial issue. It transcends partisanship. It overshadows the Olson efforts to "purge" those who refuse to do his bidding. It involves public policy.

As every voter knows, Governor Olson has been fighting the California legislature for more than three years. That he failed dismally in hs efforts to purge legislators and has less control of the legislature today than before, is, however, not the major consideration of the moment. The important point is that, being unable to force the legislators to do his exact bidding, Governor Olson has deliberately refused to permit the legislature to act on war-urgency matters. Neither war nor a fresh voter expession of confidence in legislators has shocked him into stepping down from his rule-or-ruin policy.

Governor Olson's answer to all this is that this is a campaign year, and therefore not a proper time to call politically minded legislators into session.

That answer might be made to apply at the moment, now that we are within two weeks of an election. But, it means little to men and women who last spring were asking simplifiction of birth certificates restrictions so they could work in defense industries. It means little to cities which cannot purchase fire equipment until the legislature meets. It means little to mothers who had hoped some state provision could be made to assist in the care of children while they engage in defense work. It means little to dozens of groups in dire need of legal clarification and simplification to spread defense efforts. It means little to patriotic citizens wha want ACTION, not stalemate. It means little to the 1,040,008 Democrats and Republicans who voted for Earl Warren at the August primary election as a protest against continuation of what had occurred.

True, no special session of the legislature should be called two weeks before the election, but the year 1942 started with the month of January. The election takes place in the eleventh month and the need for a special session has been clearly obvious during each month of the year.

California voters find themselves in this position today. They have already re-elected, at the August primary, a legislative majority which will not bow meekly to Olson dictates. They know from past experience that Governor Olson holds a personal grudge against these legislators and hasn't the slightest inclination to try to work WITH the legislature. At the same time the voters realize there must be early action on many legislative matters of vital importance to the state as a whole—matters which require cooperation between the legislative and administrative branches of our government.

It is the Record's opinion that the present day predictions that Earl Warren will be elected governor on November 3 are due largely to the fact that voters want ACTION, not a bickering deadlock in government. Earl Warren is a man who can work WITH the legislature elected by the people. Governor Olson has worked himself into a position from which he can neither dictate nor progress.

DON'T HOARD RUBBER

Uncle Sam has asked—rather has demanded—that all autoists with more than five tires for their car sell the extra casing to the government in order that they may be distributed where they are needed most.

The penalty for possessing more than five tires will be denial of a gas ration card. And those who attempt to hoard extra tires and still obtain ration cards will face a 10 year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

In this war, when most of our sources of natural rubber are in the hands of the enemy, hoarding of this vital commodity is little short of treason. Because of the widespread need of rubber in the manufacture of tanks, planes, guns, trucks and other war weapons hoarding, by virture of the fact it helps to slow down production is an act of direct aid to the enemy.

Waste of rubber falls into the same category, for there is virtually no replacement of existing supplies. Tires which are destroyed by improper use must be replaced from rubber in our fast dwindling reserves until new sources are found from which to produce rubber.

There should be no grumbling or discontent over the government's decision to take over excess tires. Every person who calls himself an American should accept this move, without a murmur, accept it in the same spirit with which our fighting men are going forth to the battlefields of the world.

And if any refuse to make this small sacrifice, then the government should act swiftly to exact the full penalty of the law. A rubber hoarder is a slacker, a draft-dodger, a traitor. He should be shown no mercy.

WHY INCREASE THE TAX?

A SALUTE IS MORE THAN A GESTURE

Military men have always had some form of the salute since the beginning of history, but the salute rendered by the free, democratic American soldier heabs little resemblance to that of his ancient brother.

The form and meaning of the salute has been different in each country and in each era. The soldier living in ancient Greece was a free man who fought to preserve his freedom—he was well disciplined and gave respect to his superiors in arms. But this respect was given freely. His simple salute was a gesture of greeting and recognition. When the Roman emperors fought their way to old-world domination they did it for conquest—not for protection of their homes. This fact changed the character of the Roman armies, which were made up of bondsmen and mercenaries. The salute of the soldier, when he raised his hand with a sword in it, was an act of acknowledging his subjugation to his master and a pledge of duty to him.

Moving into the Middle Ages with its reign of feudalism we come to that semi-omantic period of knights in armor and fair ladies. Each overlord had his own armies with which to aid him in conquering lesser nobles. Many forms of the salute were in vogue, but the underlying motive in the salute was one of protection and a means of recognizing a friend or foe.

When one armored knight met another he raised the visor of his helmet so that he could be recognized—and raised his right arm to show that his sword hand was free. When the latter Middle Ages merged into the 14th century this raising of the arm became standard salute among men of arms.

In the late 14th century Italy became the central world power and the cumbersome armor gave way to lighter equipment. Long flowing capes and feathered hats became the vogue among the nobility of the Renaissance. But still the salure was predominantly a means of showing that a man was unarmed and friendly. During this time, upon meeting another a man would throw his cape back over his shoulder and raise his right arm to prove to the other that he was unarmed. This form and intent of the salute continued in Europe through the hectic reigns of the Frech and Middle-European monarcies.

It was left for the military men of the New World and England to develop a form of salute which stemmed from the ancient Greeks—that which bespeaks a mark of respect and greeting.

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN ON TIRE CONSERVING

Rubber Director William M. Jeffers has asked all newspapers to carry a special message on tire conservation "as frequently as possible" from October 5th until the start of nationwide gasoline rationing about November 22nd.

Jeffers offered a suggested text for a one or two column box and said he hoped each director would consider the request as "a personal appeal from me."

The suggested text:

A message to every driver:

You can save rubber and help win the war if you will do these things:

1—Drive only when absolutely necessary.

2—Keep under thirty five miles per hour.

3—Keep your tires properly inflated.

4—Have them inspected regularly.

5—Share your car with others.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder when you see a bird
With gaping beak and drooping feather,
If you ascribe his sorry plight
With truth and justice to the weather.
I wonder at the vast number of human ills which may be directly ascribed to the rise and fall of the thermometer. I'm not referring to colds, rheumatism, creaking joints, hay fever and prickly heat, though the changing temperatures produce a large yearly crop of these disorders; but just now, I wish to consider other evils which might be entirely non-existent if there were no such thing as the weather.

Our moods, our nerves and tempers, are certainly dependent upon the varying temperatures. Our personal appearance is altered and our dignity depleted by the same pernicious powers.

Think what a sudden change of temperature does to our jovial friend, the fat man. In the cool of the morning, he sallies forth to the daily grind at ease with himself and all the world beside. He is meticulously groomed, fresh as a daisy. There's a song in his heart, a smile on his lips and a flower in his button hole. Then the thermometer begins to aviate and by noon he's a wreck. Red faced, with beads of perspiration forming upon his expansive anatomony, and rolling about willy-nilly, collar wilted, clothes moist, sticky and wrinkled, in appearance he is neither pleasing nor magnetic. Moreover, his emotions are flying loose ends; he snaps at the secretary, shouts at the clerk, snarls at the salesman's story and insults customers. Poor man, he is not to blame. It's the weather.

Cold weather may be equally demoralizing to good looks and mental equinamity. For a few years I lived in a region whose seasons my father once listed as "nine months winter and three months late in the fall." The minister who frequently came to call, was a tall, handsome and highly polished individual, in whose presence I suffered an inferiority complex and became inarticulate. One bitter day in mid winter I saw him alight from his sleigh and my eyes widened in amazement. Wearing many layers of extra clothing, a muffler about his neck and a fur cap upon his head, he truly resembled nothing human.

Finally when he stopped before the door, to remove ponderous mittens, blow upon benumber fingers, wave his arms about wildly and stomp his feet, disillusionment was complete. Never again did I stand in awe of his agust presence for I had a mental picture of him that put my fears to flight.

Yes, the weather plays with us humans as cats do with mice and something should be done about it. The government is advising us to prepare for cold weather by putting up storm doors and weather stripping our homes. This is a good suggestion for no matter how handsome, cultured or dignified we may be, the thermometer lords it over us and indubitably other than we really are.

LET HIM LIVE

As long as flowers their perfume give,
So long I'd let the Kaiser live—
Live and live for a million years,
With nothing to drink but Balkan tears,
With nothing to quench his awful thirst
But the salted tears of a Scotchman's curse.

I would let him live on a dinner each day,
Served from silver on a golden tray—
Served with things both dainty and sweet—
Served with everything but things to eat.

And I'd make him a bed of silken sheen,
With costly linens to lie between.
With covers of down and fillets of lace,
And downy pillows piled in place.
Yet when to its comforts he would yield,
It should stink with rot of the battlefield,
And blood and bones and brains of men
Should cover him, smother him—and then
His pillows should cling with the rotten clay—
Clay from the grave of a soldier boy.
And while God's stars their vigil keep
And while the waves the white sands sweep,
He should never, never sleep.

And through all the days, through all the years,
There should be an anthem in his ears,
Ringing and singing and never done
From the edge of light to the set of sun.
Moaning and moaning and moaning wild—
A ravaged French girl's bastard child.

And I would build him a castle by the sea,
As lovely a castle as ever could be;
Then I'd show him a ship from over the sea,
As fine a ship as ever could be,
Laden with water cold and sweet,
Laden with everything good to eat;
Yet scarce does she touch the silvered sands,
Scarce may he reach his eager hands,
Then a hot and hellish molten shell
Should change his heaven into hell.
And though he'd watch on the wave-swept shore,
Our Lusitania would rise no more!

In "No Man's Land," where the Irish fell,
I'd start the Kaiser a private hell;
I'd jab him, stab him, give him gas;
In every wound I'd pour ground glass;
I'd march him out where the brave boys died—
Out past the ads they crucified.

In the fearful gloom of his living tomb,
There is one thing I'd do before I was through:
I'd make him sing in a stirring manner,
The wonderful words of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Substitute Hitler and his stooges for the Kaiser and the verse is up to date.

SEN. W. P. RICH ASKS VOTERS TO BEAT HOT CARGO

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—State Senator W. P. Rich, of Marysville, today issued a stirring appeal to California voters to outlaw "Hot Cargo" and the Secondary Boycott for the duration of the war.

Senator Rich stated that this result could be attained only by voting "yes" on Proposition No. 1 on November 3rd.

Proposition No. 1 was placed on the ballot by referendum. A "yes" vote is required to ratify the law enacted by the legislature at its last session by a better than two-thirds majority. In the senate the vote was 33 to 5, in the assembly 54 to 26.

"Proposition No. 1, the 'Hot Cargo' and Secondary Boycott law, is a patriotic wartime measure which will defend the right of every man to honest employment by prohibiting labor dictators from forcing workers who have no quarrel with their employer to quit work because of some remote dispute about which those workers know nothing," declared Senator Rich.

Senator Rich said the law had been enacted after the legislature had become firmly convinced by long and thorough study that it would not interfere in any way with the practices or precepts of legitimate trade unions.

TRIP INTO

The lookout station and mine buildings were noted on the mountain. Signs along the road directed to many mines nearby, the Ruby and Brush Creek noted.

Camptonville came to view where a station is maintained by the Tahoe National Forest. Entering the Nevada City Downieville highway by many curves the enjoyable drive was quickly brought to an end.

IN THE NAVY

Harley M. Leete, Jr., of Berkeley, has been commissioned ensign in the U. S. Navy. On November 14 he will go to the University of Arizona to begin his training in the code and courier service of the Navy. Young Leete is a graduate of the Nevada City high school. On his graduation from the University of California in May, 1940, he married Miss Jacqueline Bertz of San Francisco. Until recently he was employed by the Drury Company, advertisers, San Francisco, but lately has been working in the Kaiser shipyards at Richmond, pending his call to the Navy.

ALL JAPS MOVED INLAND BY NOV. 1

Transfer of persons of Japanese ancestry from strategic military areas on the west coast will be completed by November 1, Lieutenant General J. L. DeWitt, Commanding General, Western Defense Command and Fourth Army, announced today.

With the departure this week of the remaining evacuees in Santa Anita and Fresno Assembly Centers, the last of the Japanese will have been moved inland to Relocation Centers.

They become the responsibility and care of War Relocation Authority, a civilian organization, established by Presidential Executive Order No. 9106, March 18, 1942.

The eighteen assembly centers set up last March will have fulfilled their purpose.

The army will have discharged its obligation.

That obligation, according to Col. Karl R. Bendetsen, G. S. C. Assistant Chief of Staff, Western Defense Command and Fourth Army in charge of evacuation operations, was assumed when General DeWitt determined as a matter of military necessity that the defense of the west coast required the removal of all persons of Japanese ancestry.

Within a period of eight months the army completed the job.

The first phase, that of gathering the evacuees into assembly centers was completed June 5.

Of that operation it was said that it was completed within the designated time without mischance, with minimum hardship and almost without incident.

With equal brevity and assurance it can now be said that the transference to relocation centers has been effected without incident, on time and with a proper regard for the comfort of the persons moved.

In all, 110,599 persons of Japanese ancestry were affected. The history making character of the movement has absorbed public attention to a degree exceeded only by actual operations on land and sea and air.

No attempt is made here to assay the ful range o its significance. Certainly it is an achievement without parallel in the nation's history. Never before had military necessity dictated such a program.

NAVY PROGRAM AT DEL ORO TOMORROW NIGHT

The Nevada County Bar Association, cooperating with the State Bar Association, will sponsor a Navy Day program for the general public tomorrow at the Del Oro Theatre in Grass Valley. Nevada Cityans are urged to attend.

Frank G. Finnegan, president of the Nevada County Bar, will be master of ceremonies. He will present James Snell, well known Nevada County attorney, who will speak on the Navy and the part it is playing in the war.

Mrs. Marion Libbey of Nevada City will sing and the program will close with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner by Dorothy Simmons.

E. B. MESERVEY FUNERAL RITES HELD YESTERDAY

Relatives and friends paid their final respects yesterday to Eugene B. Meservey, 90, resident of the Nevada City district for the past 70 years. The funeral rites were held at the Holmes Funeral Home with cremation following in Sacramento.

Meservey died at the home of his sister in law Mrs. W. E. Meservey, Thursday afternoon. He had been in ill health for quite a while. His wife, Elizabeth Stenger Meservey, preceded the well known resident in death by several years.

The deceased came to Nevada City from Maine, his native state, with his brother, the late W. E. Meservey, about 70 years ago. He had resided in this area up to the time of his death, following various occupations. For many years Meservey worked for the South Yuba Water Company and when that firm was taken over by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company he was retained as a ditchtender and worked for the P. G. and E. for years.

Meservey during his lifetime was active in the Masonic Order.

NEV. CO. GETS $1.36 FOR EACH DOLLAR IN STATE TAXES

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Nevada County received back $.136 from the state for each dollar collected, either in subventions to local governments or expenditures on highway projects and other projects, the state finance department announced today.

The average return was 57 cents, ranging as high as $22.20 in Alpine County and down to 28 cents in San Francisco. Seven of the 58 counties will receive over $2 for the 1941-43 biennium, while 22 will receive between $1 and $2, 17 between 75 cents and $1 and 12 a return of less than 75 cents.

During the 1941-43 biennium, it is estimated the citizens of the county will pay into the state treasury approximately $1,175,000 in state taxes, licenses, fees and other charges provided for under existing state laws. In return, they will receive from the state a total of $1,602,700 for expendnture by local government agencies.

Assessed valuaton of property subject to local taxation in 1942 totals $18,362,255. If the amount to be returned by the state were to be raised by local taxation during the two-year period, it would require an additional tax levy of $4.35 instead of the $1.60 established by the board of supervisors for the current year.

The day before Deputy Larsen caught a limit in Canyon Creek, near the Spanish Mine. The fishing season closes on October 31st. Fishing is now better than it has been all season. Good catches are also being made in the Nevada Irrigation District ditch running along the Town Talk Ridge.

YELLOWJACKETS LOSE AGAIN

An outweighed Nevada City High School football team went down to defeat Saturday at the hands of the Placer V-1 Junior College eleven on the local gridiron. The score was 28 to 6.

Except for the first quarter, when the visitors scored two touchdowns, the Yellowackets battled the Placer team almost on even terms. The Yellowjackets score came when Bill Jamerson's long pass to Peter Clark was good and the latter romped across the goal line.

Mr. Anderson is in charge of operations and development work has disclosed a 30 vein of $10 gold bearing ore besides several small veins of good ore.
